The bill, already approved by the house, is slated for action on the floor of the senate within the next few days.

LEWIS HURLS ULTIMATUM OF PEACE OR WAR

Asks Mine Owners To Choose Course in Fight Over Working Conditions.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19 — John L. Lewis asked bituminous coal operators today whether they wanted "peace" or "war" over his demand for better working conditions in the nation's mines.

Lewis' assertion came as bituminous coal operators and the United Mine Workers began actual bargaining negotiations for a new contract.

The thrashing out of a new contract was placed in the hands of a committee of seven operators and seven United Mine workers.

The present contract will be terminated by Lewis at midnight March 31, according to his procedure, and he has laid the groundwork for a nationwide bituminous strike April 1 in the absence of a new agreement.

Will Meet Half-way

Lewis closed with this declaration:

"We'll meet you half way" on a proposal by the operators that he give a guarantee against "wildcat strikes. "It's negotiable," he said. "We'll negotiate with you from here out."

Lewis again addressed the operators, rebutting their reply to his nine general demands for 400,000 members of the United Mine Workers. He repeated what he called an "indictment" in which he accused the management and stockholders of having "made dead" 28,000 mine workers in 14 years and injuring another 1,004,000.

In that "indictment" he said "we have made two demands: for abatement of this slaughter and cessation of the accompanying extortion."

"Those are demands!" he asserted. "What do you want? Peace? Or do you prefer war?

"We'll await your reply with interest on those issues," Lewis said coldly.

Figures Are Disputed

Spokesmen for the operators yesterday disputed Lewis' casualty figures, contending they did not reveal advances made in mine safety in the last 14 years.

In his "indictment" he accused the industry of making profit in some instances out of payroll deductions for medical and hospital service to miners.

Lashing out at the industry's apparent rejection of his demand for a miners' health and welfare fund, Lewis asked the operators in a bitterly sarcastic speech:

"If you work after April 1 in your mines—and I suppose some of you hope to remain in business—what are you going to do about it, continue killing men, filling up the hospitals, hauling men to remote institutions?"

Lewis already has filed a strike notice on behalf of his 400,000 soft-coal miners.

Industry spokesmen yesterday made four counter-proposals:

1. A union guarantee against wildcat strikes and production slow-downs.
2. Redefinition of vacation pay qualifications.
3. Elimination of pay for lunch periods.
4. Substitution of eight hours

RUNAWAY HEIRESS FREED AFTER QUIZ

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, March 19—Blonde 16-year-old Suzanne Froedtert was released from police custody here Tuesday after questioning about her runaway escapade which led to a nationwide search.

The Milwaukee heiress was set free at noon at orders of Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien, who also said that Ollie J. Williams, 24, Suzanne's bus trip companion, would be released.

Suzanne, accompanied by a police matron and a representative of family, Joseph W. Hicks of Chicago, returned from police headquarters to the home in highland park where she had been living to retrieve her belongings.

The young heiress, daughter of Kurtis Froedtert, wealthy Milwaukee malt and grain company executive, was then taken to an airport and placed on a chartered plane. The group's destination was not announced, but it was assumed to be either Milwaukee or Miami Beach, Fla., where her parents have been vacationing.

Prosecutor O'Brien said this finished the incident as far as the law was concerned.

Throughout the proceedings, Suzanne sat calmly in an anteroom with the police matron while O'Brien completed details of her release.

Earlier, today, Prosecutor O'Brien took lengthy statements from the young girl and Williams and said that no prosecution was expected "in view of the attitude of the girl's father.

Indefinite Draft Extension Urged; Hearings To Open

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—Extension of the draft law for an indefinite period, with service of inductees limited to 18 months was recommended today to the house military committee by Selective Service.

The recommendation was made in a letter to Chairman May (D-Ky) from Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director.

Immediately after its receipt, the committee voted to start hearing Thursday on legislation to extend the draft law. Army officials will be the first witnesses at the hearings, which will not be open to the public.

Selective Service Director Hershey recommended that the extension should be for an indefinite period, subject to cancellation by the President or by congress at any time.

LITTLE NATION FILES PROTEST AT WASHINGTON

Embassy Here Acts on Orders from Tehran as Russian Forces Stay On.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—Iran has filed a new protest with the United Nations security council against continued presence of Russian troops in that country, an Iranian embassy official said today.

Gholam Abbas Aram, first secretary of the embassy, told a reporter that Ambassador Hussein Ala delivered the protest last night to Trygve Lie, UNO secretary general, who is now in Washington.

Ala acted on instructions received from Premier Ahmed Qavam-Es-Sultaneh in Tehran late yesterday, Aram said.

Russian troops had been scheduled to leave Iran by March 2. Instead they remained there.

Qavam last week announced his intention to take Iran's troubles to the security council.

Soviet Parliament To Elect Leader

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 19 — The Supreme Soviet, the Russian parliament, in a final session tonight was expected to elect a head of the government of the U. S. S. R., which now has embarked officially upon a new five-year plan.

Throughout the war Generalissimo Stalin as chairman of the council of peoples commissars has been head of the Soviet government. Earlier in this session the Supreme Soviet decided to change the title of the head of government to chairman of the council of ministers, but the nature of the job remains unchanged.

Stalin became chairman of the council of peoples commissars May 6, 1941, by decree of the presidium.

Russia Opens New Five-Year Plan

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 19 — Russia embarked officially today upon a new five-year plan designed to place the nation in the forefront among the users of atomic energy and to boost industrial production to one and one-half times the pre-war level by 1950.

The plan, which was presented last Friday to the Supreme Soviet by N. A. Voznesensky, head of the state planning department, was adopted unanimously yesterday by both houses of the Russian parliament.

Under the measure, annual iron production would be increased to 19,000,000 tons; steel, 25,000,000 tons; coal 250,000,000 tons; oil, 35,000,000 tons; and electric power, 85,000,000,000 kilowatt hours. Expenditures for education and culture would be boosted to the equivalent of about $12,333,000,000.

Voznesensky, in sponsoring the plan, asserted the Soviet Union would maintain and strengthen her military forces during the five-year period from 1946 to 1950.

Machinery Minister A. F. Yefremov told the council of the union of the Supreme Soviet that if the aims of the plan were achieved Russia would be too powerful for any nation to overcome, even if an attack should come by surprise.

(The Moscow radio, heard in London, said yesterday the U. S. S. R. is not thinking of seizing "foreign territory but of "consolidating peace and security.")

UAW SAYS GM PACT RATIFIED

Reuther Cites Overwhelming Union Acceptance; Nation's Strike List Drops.

By The Associated Press

The CIO United Auto Workers today announced ratification of the national agreement with General Motors which followed the 113-day nationwide strike against GM plants.

Vice President Walter P. Reuther, head of the union's GM department and strike leader, made the announcement to Vice President Harry W. Anderson of General Motors in a letter.

Sufficient approval votes already had been cast by UAW-CIO locals to assure overwhelming acceptance of the national agreement, Reuther told Anderson.

Reuther also discussed the subject of local issues, but this portion of his letter was not made public immediately.

A few of the 175,000 strikers returned today to plants which now have not operated for 119 days. The plants have remained closed pending ratification.

The nation's idle because of labor disputes was today at the lowest figure in more than two months, 558,000, with further drops indicated, possibly to below 400,000.

The ranks of the idle, which in January hit a near record high of a million and a half, were further reduced today as a few of the 175,000 General Motors strikers went back to work after 119 days of idleness.

Get Plants Ready

With ratification of the settlement by the CIO United Auto Workers assured, maintenance and foundry employes in the GM plants in Saginaw, Mich., were called back to prepare the plants for the forthcoming back-to-work call.

However, employes in at least 18 plants remained on strike over unsettled local issues, and in Flint, Mich., a mass picket line was ordered set up around the huge Buick division, the company's largest plant.

Phone Strike Ends

Elsewhere along the labor front, no major developments were reported. A week-old strike of 108 AFL maintenance and traffic employes of the York (Pa.) Telephone Co. ended. Union and company officials did not disclose terms of settlement. The strikers had demanded an hourly wage increase of 17½ cents.

King Worried Over Red Spying but Frowns on Official Break

By The Associated Press

OTTAWA, March 19—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told parliament last night that his government was gravely concerned over Russian espionage activities which he said had extended through the dominion into the U. S. and Britain, but he frowned on the idea of an open break between Canada and Russia.

Voicing his belief that Generalissimo Stalin was ignorant of the espionage activities, King emphasized Canada's desire for "only the best relations with the U. S. S. R."

A tense house heard the 90-minute address in which the prime minister reviewed the course of his government's investigation into an alleged Russian spy plot, the first inkling of which was given by King himself last Feb. 15 in a public statement.

Says Canada a Base

He told Parliament that documents seized in the espionage inquiry and accepted by the government as being of undoubted authenticity, "disclosed among other things that Canada was being made a base to secure information on matters of very great and grave concern to the United States and also to Great Britain."

The prime minister said further that these documents showed "that information was being sought through agents here with respect to many matters that were of the utmost concern to Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom." He did not elaborate.

He drew a distinction between the Soviet embassy agents, who he said, had conducted the espionage, and Generalissimo Stalin and the Russian people.

King said he hoped no one in a responsible position would call for severance of diplomatic relations with Russia.

"We in Canada," he said, "want only the best of relations with the U. S. S. R., as we do with every other country, and we must not be too ready to judge until we know all the circumstances connected with the particular situation . . ."

King made no effort to minimize what he considered the gravity of the case itself.

Consulted with Truman

These were the highlights of his address:

1. He consulted immediately with President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee last fall. The public knew of these visits to Washington and London but did not know this was among the subjects discussed.
2. Announcement of the case was delayed until Feb. 15 for two main reasons: first, not to create an atmosphere of distrust at the Moscow conference of foreign ministers and subsequent United Nations meetings in London, and secondly to enable enough investigation so that as many suspects as possible among Canadian accomplices would be caught.
3. Igor Gouzenko, former cipher clerk in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, touched off the inquiry by turning over many documents. Gouzenko feared for his life and that of his wife and child, and protection was given.
4. Gouzenko "claimed that what was being created in Canada was a fifth column, and that it was being created through Russian agents in contact with members of the public service and others in this country, and that it had extended very far."
5. The Soviet espionage began in 1943 and thus could not have been a result of the fact that Russia was denied secrets of the atomic bomb.

King Discloses Own Anti-Spy Trip

By The Associated Press

OTTAWA, March 19 — Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King has disclosed that he himself raced across the Atlantic last fall to intercept a British scientist who he thought was about to divulge the highest priority atomic energy secrets to Russia.

King did not name the man and did not state whether he was apprehended.

Independent Union at Bucyrus Seeks Vote To Test CIO

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 19 — The National Labor Relations board at Cleveland today had before it a request by 121 of Crawford Steel Foundry Co.'s approximately 190 employes for an election to determine the labor bargaining agency of the company.

The 121 represent a newly-formed independent company union which was recently organized.

Crawford Steel went on strike when the steel strike was called and shortly afterward was the scene of a back to work movement launched by 132 employes who petitioned the company to reopen the plant that they might go to work.

The company, in turn, set Feb. 13 as opening day, but that morning more than 300 CIO pickets prevented any worker from entering the gates. Each morning for some time men reported for work but were turned back by the pickets. Picketing has continued since then.

The company's contract with the United Steelworkers (CIO) expired March 10.

Soon after the strike call, a petition signed by 132 workers ap-

DOCTOR ADMITS 'SOME' DEATHS

Denies Part in 27 Murders Charged But Confesses Hand In Others.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, March 19—Swarthy Dr. Marcel Petiot said today that he participated in a "certain number" of slayings, but denied taking part in any of the 27 murders for which he is on trial for his life. Under interrogation for a second day in connection with mass killings at his house in the Rue Lesueur, the stoop-shouldered doctor gave an animated and elaborate account of how his so-called resistance group abducted alleged Gestapo informers in the streets of Paris and killed them.

He said he killed two German motorcyclists, but his lawyers said they were not mentioned in the indictment and were irrelevant to the case.

Attorney Boils Over

This followed a heated argument during which an attorney, defending the civil interests of the families of the victims, shouted at Petiot:

"I'll smash your face in."

The state charges Petiot participated in the robbery and murder of 27 persons who tried to escape France during the occupation. His lawyer quoted the doctor as denying this.

The lawyer, Rene Floriot, declared Petiot would stand pat on an assertion at the opening of his trial yesterday that his Paris home was used in his absence by members of the resistance movement for the "execution" of traitors.

In Petiot's home police found an assortment of gruesome remains—including partially burned human limbs and bodies submerged in a lime pit.

Petiot yesterday said the persons slain were collaborators, that he was sane and innocent, and that he deserved France's resistance award, the Liberation cross.

YOUNG DRIVERS GET WARNING FROM JUDGE

Gast Says Speeding Must Stop; Revokes 2 Licenses.

A wave of auto speeding by Marion youths during the last two weeks brought a warning from Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast today that his court would deal severely with young drivers caught speeding on Marion streets.

Judge Gast's warning followed hearings of two Marion boys, 16 and 17 years old, in juvenile court this morning. Both were charged with speeding on East Center street, and driving licenses of both were revoked for 60 days by the judge.

During the last two weeks several similar cases have come up in juvenile court, the judge pointed out.

Truman Calls on Congress for U. S. To Support UNO

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—President Truman told congress today the United States must seek to perfect the United Nations charter or betray the trust "of those who fought" for lasting peace and security.

In a report on the activities of the United States delegation to the recent UNO meeting in London, the President said:

"The United States supports the charter. The United States supports the fullest implementation of the principles of the charter. The United States seeks to achieve the purposes of the charter. And the United States seeks to perfect the charter as experience lights the way.

"To do less than our utmost in this essential effort of peace-loving nations, whatever may be the obstacles and difficulties, would be a betrayal of the trust of those who fought to win the opportunity to have a world at last with peace and security, and well-being for all. To do our utmost will be to give new and full expression to the meaning of 'America' to the world."

Kirkpatrick Ex-Highs and LaRue Merchants battled to the very end before LaRue won out, 32-29. Both teams employed zone defenses, and were evenly matched in size. LaRue held a first quarter lead of 8-6, but Kirkpatrick came up to take over a 15-13 margin at half-time. Failure of the Vets to cash in on foul shots proved costly as they made only eight of 20 shots in the last half.

Universal Cooler won a fast game from the Delaware Independents 50-45. Cooler lost little time in getting started as they built up a 17-9 first quarter lead that enabled them to stall off a fast breaking Delaware team for the last three quarters. It was the work of O'Connor, Cooler center, who scored nine points in the last quarter that enabled the Marion team to nullify Delaware's last quarter rally.

Isaly Has Breeze

Isaly Dairy won 46-27 over Caledonia K. of P. lodge, Harbolt of Isaly went on a score spree the first half to build up a lead. Isaly enjoyed a 14-4 first quarter lead and stretched it to 26-13 by halftime. Ott scored 10 points for Caledonia.

DeMolay took over the third quarter lead 20-18. Both teams played a rushing game during the last quarter with the lead changing hands several times. Near the finish DeMolay lead by one point, but Martel scored a point on a technical foul to send the game into an overtime. Gilbert of DeMolay sank a basket near the end of the overtime to win.

Eight teams are now left in the tournament and the schedule will call for two games on each floor with the quarters 10 minutes in length for this Friday, March 22. The seven winners last night, plus Green Camp which has luckily

Kentucky To Battle Rhode Island Cagers

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—Kentucky's smooth five, first team to be picked for the National Invitational basketball tournament, and Rhode Island's wild-running Rams, last to be invited to the annual Madison Square Garden affair, will meet for the title Wednesday night.

Top-seeded team of the tourney, the Wildcats from the Bluegrass country were given a stiff battle by West Virginia's Mountaineers last night before they were able to pull out a 59-51 victory and advance to the final round.

The Rams once again laughed off their underdog role, and polished off the Mules of Muhlenberg, 59-51.

Connie Says War Vets Inspire Big Bobo

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Newsfeatures Sports Writer

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—In all Connie Mack's 52 years as a baseball manager, starting with Pittsburgh in 1894, he admits he never drove a baseball squad so hard in spring training.

"You know this will probably be the greatest season we've ever had in the game," explains the Philadelphia Athletics' boss, "and we've got to be ready for it. The boys returning from service are setting us a very good example."

Are the fellows who have been out going to be able to pick up where they left off?

"I would say that they will be better than ever," goodness gracioused the 83-year-old pilot. "Every one I've seen is in better condition, has more wind and coordination than he had before going to war.

Servicemen Set Example

"Not only that but they are setting a fine example for the men they left behind — fellows like Buck Newsom.

"I don't think Buck ever worked any harder in his life. He's lost about 20 pounds and is pitching better than any of them out there.

"Don't be surprised if he betters his best Detroit record. I think he won 21 games for the Tigers in 1941. (The old sage hit it right on the nose.)

BOBO NEWSOM
Sheds 20 Pounds

"You know I get a big kick out of fellows like Buck. They keep me young. He had a few tough years, but he loves competition. Now that he knows he can match his wits with the best of the hitters, he is overflowing with confidence. Mark my words, he's going to be very hard to beat this year.

Of the servicemen back with the A's, Mr. Mack looks for pitchers Luman Harris and Phil Marchildon, second baseman Benny McCoy and shortstop Jack Wallaesa and outfielder Sam Chapman to give him the most help.

The Elephants' head is high on his "down the middle combination." They saw that is where pennants are won, the catchers, pitchers, second basemen and shortstops.

"I don't see any catching staff better than Buddy Rosar and Gene DeSautels," explains the venerable one. "As for our pitchers, Newsom, Russ Christopher, Harris, Jack Knott, Marchildon and Jess Flores are going to be tougher than ever.

Pitching Will Win Pennant

"Gosh, they act as if they caught a bug or something out there on the mound. If any of the other boys come through, we have the best pitching staff in years—and I think pitching will win the pennant this year.

"McCoy and Wallaesa should do very well around second base. If they don't, we have able substitutes.

"Chapman should take care of centerfield without any trouble. He was just beginning to show his ability when he enlisted in the Navy in 1941.

"Yes, I think we'll do all right this year," smiled Mr. Mack with that pennant twinkle in his eye.

Ken Keltner Gets Out of Navy, Hits Tribe for Raise in Pay

By The Associated Press

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 19 —The Cleveland Indians' hopes for a contending position in the power - packed 1946 American league race soared today with the news that Ken Keltner, star third baseman, had been released from the Navy.

Keltner, ranked by most experts as one of the leading hot corner guardians in the league, informed Tribe Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh late yesterday from his home in Milwaukee that he had been released from service.

The stellar third-sacker dropped a fly in the Indians' spring training ointment, however, by declaring he would not report for duty until a new salary agreement was offered.

Peckinpaugh said another telephone talk was scheduled today with Keltner, who asserted he was unwilling to play for the same terms he received in 1944, his last wartime season.

Keltner, reportedly one of the highest salaried players on the Tribe's roster in 1944, entered the Navy last spring and played with Great Lakes, Alameda, Cal., and Hawaiian naval teams.

Manager Lou Boudreau previously said Keltner's return would eliminate further competition for the Tribe's regular third base post.

Three positions on the Indians' regular infield already have been settled with Keltner at third, Boudreau at shortstop and Les Fleming at first. The only remaining battle for the quartet of positions is between Dutch Meyer, a hard-hitter, and Ray Mack, a flashy fielder, for second base.

Pete Center, Winslow Stroupe and Allie Reynolds take the mound today in an exhibition tilt with the Detroit Tigers. A scheduled contest with the New York Yankees was cancelled yesterday because of rain.

The basketballers entrain for New York where they open the National Collegiate Athletic association tournament against Harvard in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

The swimmers will continue the journey to New Haven, Conn., to compete in the NCAA meet March 29-30. And the Buck mermen are favored contenders, having been undefeated in team competition the past season.

It will be the fourth effort for the Bucks in the NCAA cage tourney and they have yet to grab off the blue ribbon.

Red Hot Akron Cagers to Test Liverpool

By HAROLD HARRISON
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS O, March 19—A team which barely missed a perfect season and one which apparently just found its stride at tournament time will provide the entertainment Friday for the opening of the final Class "A" high school basketball tournament at Toledo.

Off their season records, East Liverpool's Potters would have to be rated favorites to advance to the championship game but it's an old basketball axiom that a team which reaches its peak at tournament time is tough to beat — and that seems to apply to Akron North's Vikings.

First of a series of articles about the eight teams remaining in the running for Ohio's Class A and B basketball titles.

23 Out of 26

East Liverpool will move into Toledo with a record of 23 victories in 26 games. All three defeats were by a margin of one-point. Weirton (W. Va.) edged out the Potters, 31 to 30, in their fourth game of the season. New Philadelphia was the next to stop East Liverpool, doing it 26 to 25, and that, incidentally, was the only time this season the Potters have scored less than 30 points in a game. Salem had one of its hot nights a couple of weeks later and took a 38 to 37 decision.

Prior to the start of the tournament play, however, Akron North's record was nothing to write home about. The Vikings were beaten in six of their regularly scheduled engagements, but since the team began playing for the blue chips it never has been threatened seriously.

IRONMAN VETERAN. Bob Ryan, shown above with his father, Mike Ryan, Idaho university's track coach and athletic trainer, really lives up to the nickname of the Idaho champions of the northern division of the Pacific Coast conference. The Idahoans, called the Ironmen because their five starters usually go the distance, regard Bob as tops. In the St. Lo breakthrough he stopped a German bullet, spent 15 months in hospitals. With a shriveled arm rated at 30 per cent disabled, he still made his letter

At the start of the season, East Liverpool's hopes were none too high. The team had been riddled by graduation, and Coach Don Ogden, starting his second year with the Potters, had a big rebuilding job. Sparked by James Harris, a veteran guard, the Potters started fast, however, and never let up.

Two Marked Men

Harris and Middletown's Paul Lansaw will be the marked players in this week's tournament.

Bill Cain and Jerry Hyder, both at five-feet 11 inches, do most of the forward duties with six-foot, one-inch Walter Ashbaugh at center. Charles Means, a five-foot, 10-inch lad, is Harris' running mate at guard.

There will be little to choose between the two teams as far as height is concerned. James Smithy and Verne Petrie, Akron North's starting forwards, are five-feet, 10 inches, and five-feet, five inches, respectively. Center Joe Vatalro is five-feet, 11-inches. Robert Sadowski at six-feet, once-inch and Carmen Ciccarelli at six-feet, two inches, are the starting guards.

Coaching Akron North is Bob White, who received his collegiate education at Western Michigan State.

North also is one of two former state champions in the final field. The Vikings have been to the state finals on four previous occasions and won the championship in 1935 and 1939. They were runnersup in 1937.

This will be East Liverpool's third trip to the state finals but its first since 1928.

ACTION IS DELAYED ON SCHOOL PLANS

Industrial Council Discusses Building Program.

Discussion of the proposed Marion school building program featured a meeting of the Marion Industrial Union Council's executive board last night, but the board postponed action on the program until the next regular Union Council meeting March 26.

The council's school committee submitted reports to the board and members discussed the possibilities of indorsing the program. However, they postponed definite action on the measure until the council's next regular meeting.

Last night's meeting followed action taken at the last regular council session when members voted to further investigate the school program after they had heard a school program report read by James Jenkins, council secretary.

WASHINGTON, March 19—A Scranton, Pa., newspaper reporter was instrumental, the house was told yesterday, in ending "the most corrupt situation that could possibly exist in any federal court."

He is George Martin of the Scranton Times.

The house heard yesterday that Martin and his paper were responsible for congressional investigators obtaining leads on the conduct of former Federal Judge Albert W. ASSORTED LEADERS CLIMB IN TRADING

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—Assorted stocks, including tobaccos, worked moderately higher in today's market although numerous leaders slipped fractionally under negligible pressure.

Timid bidding again was based principally on the lessening of international apprehension, belief that further relaxation of price controls was inevitable and the feeling that the recent technical recovery from the February slump would be extended.

The ticker tape loafed from the start in one of the slow sessions of the year to date.

Ahead most of the day were American Tobacco "B," Liggett & Myers "B," Reynolds Tobacco "B," Barnsdall Oil, Pfizer, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Gimbel, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, American Water Works, Philip Morris and American & Foreign Power. American Airlines jumped about 5 at the best.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"MARY!" my husband exploded as I drew away from his embrace. "What does Mary have to do with the price of potatoes?"

"Nothing that I know of," I tossed back as I went to the telephone. "But she does have a great deal to do with something else very important."

"I'll tell you all about it later," I went on as I took down the receiver, and when I had given the operator the number of Mary's apartment, I added:

"Please don't be surprised at anything I say, and when she comes up here, catch my cues, even if you don't understand them."

"Sounds like a blooming jig saw puzzle to me, with most of the pieces lost," he grumbled.

But I knew that he would play up, and I mustered all my faculties on the problem of getting Mary up to the apartment without Noel accompanying her.

It was Noel who answered the telephone, and I made my voice conspiratorial.

"Noel, don't tell Mary this now, but her grandmother has a slight heart attack, and I know that she will want to be up here. But there's no use of upsetting her and having her imagine things beforehand. So if you'll just tell her I'd like to consult her about a dress I'm remodeling, and ask her if she can spare the time to come up right away, I don't believe she'll suspect anything."

Sound of Closing Door

"I'll tell her at once," he said promptly, and then I heard him talking to Mary, although I could not make out the words. The next instant I heard the sound of a closing door, and then Noel's voice again.

"She's on her way up," he said. "I should like to have come with her—you know that, don't you?" he added anxiously.

"Of course," I answered.

"But I was afraid she would suspect something was wrong if I came along, too. So I'll just stay here until she comes back."

"Thank heaven for that!" I breathed to myself, but I did not utter the words aloud, and the next instant he was speaking again, urgently.

"But I'll stay right here by the telephone," he said. "So if you should need me, all you'll have to do will be to call. Tell me, is Madam Graham in danger?"

Can Ward Off Attack

"I do not think so," I told him. "Mrs. Bickett, who is taking care of her in the apartment adjoining this, thinks she can ward off the attack which shows signs of beginning. What she needs most is rest and quiet."

"Yes, I imagine she's been going at a pretty strenuous pace for her age," he commented.

"She has," I answered laconically. "And now, dear boy, I really must stop talking. Thank you so much for your co-operation."

"I haven't done anything," he protested. "Remember to call me if you need me."

"I surely will," I told him heartily, "and thank you. Goodbye."

I hung up my receiver even before we had voiced his answering "Goodbye," and turned to meet my husband's frankly inquisitive eyes.

"You've got me treed, allee samee a coon," he said. "First, you tell Noel that he must not frighten Mary about her grandmother, and then you go on discussing Mother's heart attack, and evidently answering his questions about it. What's the answer?"

Mary On Her Way

"The door knocker will give it to you in a minute or two, I fancy," I told him smiling. "You see, Mary left the apartment as soon as he had given her my message, and is on her way up here. The rest of his part of the conversation was unheard by her."

"So far, so good," he said. "And now, where do we go from here?"

"As far as the door," I said, wrinkling my nose at him as the door knocker sounded.

But when I admitted Mary, she evidently was highly keyed with curiosity.

"Don't tell me you sent for me in such a hurry for a remodeling job," she said. "What's happened?"

YOUR HEALTH

Vitamins

Knowledge of vitamins is getting beyond the ABC stage.

Most of them have real names now and we know many, many things about them that were not dreamed of earlier.

Not so long ago, it was believed that the only signs of vitamin lack were the development of actual and terrible diseases, diseases such as beriberi, due to lack of vitamin B-1; scurvy, due to vitamin C deficiency; rickets, developing because of insufficient vitamin D.

Now, we know that vitamin-lacks are much more widespread than is shown by the development of these diseases, and that these lacks can show up in apparently normal individuals in disorders such as increased susceptibility to colds, decrease in vitality and, even in faulty eyesight.

Furthermore, we now understand that vitamin deficiencies develop under many conditions besides poverty and ignorance. A nation does not have to be devastated by war for its people to suffer from hidden vitamin hungers.

The faulty preserving of foods and improper preparation may destroy certain of the vitamins. Also, disorders of the stomach and bowel may cause persons to eat foods that do not supply enough vitamins, or these disorders may keep the vitamins from being taken into the body.

The chronic alcoholic may forget to eat. The person with poor appetite may not eat enough. There may be a lack of secretions such as those in the stomach, or some disturbance of the bile which keeps vitamins from being absorbed.

Foods may move through the intestinal tract so rapidly because of diarrhea that there is no opportunity for food materials to be taken up into the body. Some types of chronic liver disease may interfere with the storage of the vitamins and then, at certain times of life such as pregnancy, in women who are breastfeeding a baby, or in those who are putting forth unaccustomed physical exertion, there may be a need for an extra quantity of vitamins.

Not only have we learned all these facts about the causes of vitamin deficiency but more and more vitamins have been recognized. There are vitamins A, D, E, and K, which are soluble in fat, vitamin C and the many parts of the vitamin B-complex, which are soluble in water. We do not know as yet what a deficiency of these parts of the B-complex may lead to.

For example, there is still no definite evidence of the part that pyridoxine, pantothenic acid, choline inositol and biotin play in the human body.

People in general can rely on the foods they eat to supply them with the vitamins they require. However, when deficiencies actually do exist, our knowledge is now such that the physician can prescribe the proper vitamin preparations to overcome quickly the difficulty that is present.

UN-AMERICAN PROBE OF OFFICIALS BARED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—Members of the house committee on un-American activities disclosed today that for the last two months they have been quietly investigating reports that "persons of un-American tendencies are holding high position in the state department."

Their inquiry, they said, does not overlap a current inquiry into state department intelligence operations being made by the house military committee.

Disclosure that the un-American activities group has moved into the state department picture came from Rep. Mundt (R-SD) and was confirmed by Rep. Rankin (D-Miss), ranking majority member.

"We have made no formal report and probably won't for some time," Mundt told a reporter. "But what we have found so far indicates that there is more than rumor to reports that many persons of questionable background are employed in the department."

Mundt said his committee is concerned primarily with persons who "are pro-Communistic."

yle Finds Young Arab Student Distrustful

By HAL BOYLE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Cairo, March 19—Today let's look into the mind of a young modern Arab college student.

I will do it by reading excerpts from themes he has written in his class in the English language. These themes show him as doubtful, suspicious of his country's leaders, distrustful of powers and basically patriotic. He is turbulent in the way of expressing the world around, but sympathetic with the oppressed and ignored as he will be a man raising between two worlds in which he feels comfortable at home.

A young man doesn't write such classic American school-boy topics as "the view from my window" or "my most interesting experience." He writes of mobs and freedom and bloodshed and justice, because these things are the views from his troubled intellectual windows.

He is pro-Arab and strongly anti-British and anti-Semitic. He suspects allied propaganda as much as he ever did Nazi propaganda, and indeed wrote that the present trial of Nazi leaders as war criminals was "a historical joke."

Accuses British

"Many of these leaders served their country according to the law they understood," his theme continued. "British empire leaders, for instance, had committed more disgraceful crimes than these Nazi leaders, yet they never stood before any tribunal. The inventor of the atom bomb and those who used it to kill thousands of children are as much war criminals as the Nazis."

The student worries much over his nation's poverty stricken masses, three fourths of whom, he says, live "more like animals than human beings." Defending looting during recent riots he wrote:

"Poverty and ignorance are responsible for riots. The mobs were looting the shops of people who have been sucking their blood for a long time. The mobs are naked and it was their only chance to get clothes for their dirty, diseased bodies. It was their opportunity to snatch by any means something to live on.

"Smashing shops is the only manner mobs understand to express their long pent-up feelings. Justice will convict these miserable, ignorant but innocent human beings because those who maintain justice never suffer from want."

Hits Waste

In another theme on "waste of money" he protested against a concert given by the Egyptian government to Pan-Arab league representatives.

"Government has to realize that this wasted money belongs to the people," he said. "Entertainments are understandable in a country like the United States, where nearly everybody's food and home are guaranteed, but in Egypt it is a human crime. These unnecessary entertainments must be stopped if the government wishes to be respected and intends to maintain justice in this miserable country."

Denying Jewish moves to establish a national home in Palestine he declared in still another classroom theme:

"There is only one way to free Palestine from the new aggression. The Arabs must establish a powerful and well-equipped army.

"Democratic principles these days do not help justice. We need only look at what is happening in Egypt, Java, Iran and India to realize that force is master of all.

"The solution is in the hands of the people themselves. The time has come for the struggle to protect Arab liberty. Official Arab leaders ought to be ignored and the people carry the flame and fight with self-confidence. To rely on well paid leaders is undoubtedly suicide."

Scores Allied Soldiers

In other themes this serious young student criticized allied soldiers for drunken New Year's eve revelling in Cairo, attacked American congressmen who favored unrestricted Jewish immigration into Palestine for "interfering in affairs which are none of their business" and forecast any agreement between Britain, Russia and the United States would come about only by sacrificing small nations and dividing them "into strategic areas which the big powers shall occupy forever."

When the teacher objected that too many of his students were prone to condemn and failed to write about "the fine things Egypt is full of," this student wrote in his next composition:

"Egypt's educated youth has grown up to face a critical problem. They have a message to carry and a patriotic duty to achieve. Every sincere Egyptian has nothing to think, to write or to speak about more than Egypt's freedom."

How would you like to teach English in Cairo?

Before entering military service three years ago, Mr. Beekman represented the company in the Portsmouth district. 1,559 FARMERS SIGN IN AAA PROGRAM

75 Per Cent of Farms Included for This Year.

Nearly 75 per cent of Marion county farms have already signed up for participation in the 1946 AAA farm program, according to Frank G. Montgomery, county AAA chairman.

Latest figures released show that 1,559 farms are listed for participation in the conservation plan. April 1 is the final date for sign-up. Farmers still are submitting applications so the number is expected to increase before the final figure is reached, Mr. Montgomery said.

The sign-up to date represents 184,637 acres of farm land and 137,146 acres of crop land. Non-crop open pasture under the program includes 17,374 acres.

Farmers have asked for 44,524 tons of lime, 17,834 rod of tile and 1,339 pounds of seed for pastures. Estimated for sod waterways is 208,000 square feet and for open ditches 380 cubic yards. Acres of hayseed for harvest totals 13,153 and green manure crops 1,162 acres.

Number of farms signed in each township follows: Big Island, 145; Bowling Green, 114; Claridon, 124; Grand, 77; Grand Prairie, 47; Green Camp, 100; Marion, 92; Montgomery, 141; Pleasant, 105; Prospect, 96; Richland, 162; Salt Rock, 76, Scott, 76; Tully, 85 and Waldo, 119.

British Expect Trouble When Germans Get Full Stomachs

By The Associated Press

HANNOVER, March 19 — A senior military government officer says bluntly that British occupation authorities expect trouble from young, militant Germans in about a year or two—when they are well fed.

This high-placed officer, asking not to be quoted name, told a reporter this is not a possibility but a decided probability.

"The werewolves are dead now," he said in an interview. "That is because the German is busy trying to find food. But it will not always be that way.

"When Germany is better organized, when enough food is available so that a man doesn't have to spend all his time on that one problem, it will be different."

He said he expected that turn of affairs in maybe a year, two at the latest.

Some occupation officials feared there would be trouble over reduced rations, which went into effect two weeks ago.

"That will only intensify their search for food," the officer said. "And it will only keep them that much busier on the one problem. We have set up, of course, safety measures but see no organized efforts among Germans to cause trouble."

The view is this:

There are 50,000,000 Germans outside the Russian zone. The area never was able to feed more than 35,000,000. Imports must feed the remainder.

By summer, 1947, it is expected that agricultural production will be at its peak. That means that the great majority of Germans will be living off their own crops and they will know it.

With a job, perhaps, and full stomach the, the German will have time to attend political meetings, to discuss among friends the political future of the Reich.

That's when the "hotheads" speak up and the chances are they'll have a willing audience.

ENROLLED AT O.N.U.

John F. Dayton was a Marion student enrolled last week in the spring quarter at Ohio Northern university, Ada, in the liberal arts school. He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Claude Dayton of 119 Brenner court, and was at home over the week-end.

Piles Are Never "Mild"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves: instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

OHIO FROST DAMAGE FEARED BY EXPERTS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19 — Unseasonably warm weather caused agriculture department officials to express concern today over the possibility of damage to Ohio orchards in event of hard frosts similar to those of last year.

Agriculture Director John N. Hodson said fruit trees had "come out" so rapidly in recent days that late frosts might cause extensive damage to cherries, peaches, apples and small fruits.

George Mindling, government meterologist, said the first 17 days of March this year averaged 51 degrees, about normal for mid-April, compared with an average of 46 degrees for the comparable period in March, 1945. He said March temperatures so far had been about 14 degrees above normal.

Killing frosts occurred last April 5, 6 and 19 and there were hard frosts as late as May 1 and 2.

You gave no one a last farewell,
You said goodbye to none;
A weary heart had ceased to beat
Before we knew you'd gone.
And when the evening shades are falling,
And we are sitting all alone.
In our hearts there comes a longing.
If you could only come home.
You shall never be forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade.
Sweetest thoughts will always linger
Around the grave where you are laid.

Renewing the Draft

THE WIDE difference between the executive recommendation for continuing the selective service act one year from its expiration date on July 1 and a proposal before the senate military affairs committee to extend it six weeks puts potential draftees in more trouble than they deserve.

It is entirely understandable that congress should not have a ready-made answer on selective service; the answer depends on too many things beyond its control. It is also understandable that the desire for maximum security has prompted the executive department to recommend a longer extension than it expects to get.

That still does not relieve potential draftees of their uncertainty. They are the pawns in a government maneuver that might have been spared them. Certainly on a question affecting so many persons directly, they have a right to expect that their plans and convenience also should be taken into consideration.

Instead of dangling them between guesses as far apart as six weeks and 52 weeks, the majority party, responsible for preparation and execution of a legislative program, should have agreed among its own members on one set figure for extending the selective service act beyond the end of June.

Once it is agreed that extension is necessary, there should be no quibbling over the time by members of the majority. If the minority wants to take responsibility for challenging the majority's estimate, that is its right. The Democrats have turned in another bad piece of party government.

Yes But Maybe

THE difference between Winston Churchill's position and the position of his American friends who are listening to his outspoken criticism of Russia with reservations is in the degree of certainty about Russia's intentions.

Mr. Churchill, whose prejudices and sympathies date back further than those of most of his contemporaries who have opinions about Russia and related matters of international security, is very close to condemning the Soviet Union on the basis of evidence already in hand.

Those who reserve the right to doubt that Mr. Churchill's judgment is competent are not nearly so close to condemning Joseph Stalin's regime on the basis of existing evidence. They seek more evidence. They are willing to extend the benefit of a doubt.

They suspect that the Russian government may be feeling its way in the postwar world, just as the United States obviously is feeling its way. They respect Mr. Churchill as an extremely competent observer and a prophet of unusual soundness, but they also believe that he is in danger of forgetting that the attitudes of governments are not static. There have been tremendous changes in the United States, in Britain, in France, China and many of the United Nations. There may be changes in Russia. If there are not, the hope of cooperative security is shattered. But it must not be shattered prematurely. Mr. Churchill is entitled to his convictions, but skeptics are similarly entitled to their doubts.

What Might Have Been

WHEN economic historians review events during and after the war boom, it may well be that their main interest will come to a focus on one talking point which was used so much that finally no one questioned it.

It is the claim, inherent in every comparison between war boom earnings and prospective postwar earnings, that peacetime wage levels should be stabilized at or near wartime peaks.

The ultimate effect of this must be to force every other economic factor related to wages into the same level, Chester Bowles and economic stabilization to the contrary notwithstanding. The immediate effect, which is what is being dealt with now, is to create a strain and sharpen the threat of runaway inflation while the other factors are going through the agony of adjustment. To a large extent, wage-price bickerings are only an attempt to make someone else pay for the inflation that the government itself induced by a wartime policy of cheapening money and a short-sighted postwar policy of promising to undo the consequences by giving wage earners more cheapened dollars to spend.

The alternative, which now is of only academic interest because it is too late to try it, was to restrain the war boom while the war was in progress. That would have meant holding down wages, paying the expense of the war out of confiscatory taxes and closely limiting increases in the country's money and credit supply. It would have meant not having a war boom, not having wage inflation through premium wages based on a limited work week. It would have meant paying for the war in uncheapened dollars, and in the postwar readjustment it would have meant no scramble to catch up to disappearing money values. The economic historians, guided by hindsight, will wonder why more consideration was not given at the time to the hard way that would have been the easy way in the long run.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Midnight Meeting Brings Pauley's Withdrawal

WASHINGTON, March 19—The withdrawal of Mr. Truman's friend, Edwin Pauley, was arranged at a midnight meeting. It was quite a significant meeting from a Democratic party standpoint. Present were National Chairman Hannegan, Mr. Pauley, the senator who led the fight for him, Millard Tydings of Maryland, the naval affairs committee chairman Senator Walsh—all strictly party men.

Conspicuously missing were the supra-party leaders, Senator Pepper, a nominal Democrat, and Mr. Ickes who is not nominally anything, although he has been called, and has called himself many things. They were not consulted, as far as I have been able to learn.

Ends At 1 a. m.

The meeting did not break up until one a. m., after which the letters of pleasant exchange between President Truman and Pauley were arranged for release to the press the next day. Not much interpreting of the results has been done in view of the chaotic confusions into which the debate was plunged. Indeed the natural interpretation that the Pepper-Ickes group won a battle over the Truman - Hannegan-Pauley party leadership has been widely avoided as far as I have seen—both Pepper and Ickes avoided comment. The opposition appeared glad enough to forget its supposedly great sensational struggle.

Indeed, the list of casualties left on the battle field hardly would justify an interpretation of victory for the Pepper-Ickes crowd. Mr. Pauley lost a proposed subcabinet job; but may get an ambassadorship or something else, as he still enjoys White House favor. Mr. Ickes lost his 14-year political hegemony in the interior department and his really important cabinet position. My information suggests Senator Pepper may have lost something equally important, although the loss of his tongue is so far the only recorded result in the casualty list.

Scalp Seems Safe

Similarly my informants report the campaign within the party for Hannegan's scalp is not likely to succeed. There has been some legitimate opposition within the party to the Hannegan control, aside from this Pepper-Ickes fight against Pauley. Some of the older party men have been saying among themselves that he is too young, that his health has not been the best, that his tactics are not successful, that he has been playing too much — strangely enough—with the old Roosevelt crowd. The Pepper-Ickes group capitalized on this feeling during the fight against Pauley, and drew strength when boss Ed Crump of Memphis, came out with a demand that Hannegan give up one of his two jobs, as postmaster general and Democratic national chairman. If Hannegan gives up either, it will be the postmaster generalship because he enjoys the unlimited support of Mr. Truman.

His scalp, the Democratic party people say, is therefore not likely to be included on the casualty list. As a matter of fact, the stories about his health are said by his friends to relate to the fact that he had some of his teeth pulled recently. In appearance, he looks healthy enough.

The greatest net result then is that the great Ickes fell from his personal hegemony in the cabinet to the job of writing a column for a minor paper, and organizing artists into some kind of a new Liberty League. This is the greatest recorded fall since Lucifer—in distance I mean.

Just a Minute

A KITCHEN VERSION OF ATOMIC POWER?

A chemical extract has been developed, one ounce of which is equal, in odor and flavoring qualities, to two hundred pounds of garlic.

No mention is made of the name of its inventor. But how frequently in the past has one occupied the seat next to him in a picture-show.

Thirty-two hundred times as powerful as garlic . . . This, indubitably, is what they've been looking for, those people who are always complaining that they can never get enough seasoning in their food.

It was, of course, primarily developed for hotel and restaurant use. But it will likewise come in handy for clearing standing-room on crowded street-cars.

Naturally, having discovered this most potently pungent force, the next order on the agenda is an international conference to discuss means of controlling it.

In that connection, our secret service will be busier than ever now with two formulas to protect: the atomic from the Russians, the garlic from the Italians.

But at least the surplus property people are happy. Here at last is an opportunity to dispose of several million left-over gasmasks.

Iranian Oil Needs Negotiating

By Walter Lippmann

THE defense of the United Nations Organization charter, on which so much is staked, is not likely to be successful if we regard it an oratorical contest—one in which we now have to do the talking in New York, beginning where Mr. Bevin and Mr. Vishinsky left off talking in London.

We could not make our own Constitution work successfully if we tried to operate under it as we have under the United Nations Charter. No one would dream of asking Congress to debate and vote upon an important bill until there had been extensive committee hearings, much discussion in executive session, in the cloakrooms, in caucus, in private conferences among the leaders of Congress.

All of this is regarded as necessary preparation before the measure can be debated and put to a vote. But in the UNO we have allowed great and dangerous issues, like the Iranian, to be raised with no, or virtually no, serious diplomatic preparation.

There was a little hurried and quite superficial talk about Iran at the Moscow conference in December. The real issues, which have to do with oil concessions and strategical control, were alluded to but were not negotiated. They were not even defined. Yet the Iranian question was thrust upon the security council in this raw condition.

No Negotiations

It was as if congress had been asked to vote on the abstract principle of a British loan before Messrs. Vinson and Clayton and all their technical advisers had negotiated the matter in the concrete with Lord Keynes and the British delegation. There was no genuine negotiation about Iran before the question was raised in the security council. There has not yet been any genuine negotiation.

During this whole period there has been no American ambassador in Moscow and there has been no British ambassador, and there has been no Soviet ambassador in Washington. The security council has as yet no secretariat, no legal counsel, no rules of procedure.

Yet we are told that here is the acid test of the charter! As if the security council could settle by a dramatic debate what its leading members have not yet examined before they stand up and declaim about it!

The performance of the state department and of Gen. Marshall in China present an instructive and refreshing contrast. The Chinese problem is at least as difficult, in fact much more difficult, than the Middle Eastern problem. But in China we have in recent months stopped trying to solve the problem by pronunciamento and attitudinizing, and have been conducting instead a genuine political operation, a well-planned, organized and coordinated use of our power and influence to bring about a settlement.

Nothing Tried

In the Middle East nothing comparable has been attempted. We have had no one there, neither in Moscow nor in Tehran, comparable in stature with Gen. Marshall, nor have we been acting with any comparable grasp of the strategic, economic, and political realities that underlie the formal dispute.

Until this situation is corrected, we have no right to stake the prestige of the charter and the very existence of the United Nations upon the issue for which there has been no adequate preparation. It is no good saying that there must be no appeasement and that we must face up to the issue. Of course, we must face up to the issue. But talking about it is not facing up to it.

During the war we faced up to the opening of a "second front" in Europe when Gen. Eisenhower was ready, and not when he was unready, regardless of the clamor which though well meant was uninformed about the magnitude and the charcter of the operation.

It is a great pity, and reprehensible on their part, that the Russians have precipitated these matters while British and American diplomacy were off balance and so unready. They would have done better to invite the negotiations which we have been so unprared to conduct. But they did not do that. So we shall have to initiate them.

There are indications from London that the British government may be getting ready to open up negotiations about the real issue in Iran. The most significant is the report that the returning British ambassador in Tehran, Sir Reader Bullard, is making a report recommending that an international body be set up to regulate the conflict of British, American, and Russion oil interests in Iran. For there cannot be much doubt that the main and immediate, though probably not the only and the ultimate issue in Iran, is how her immense oil resources, which she is incapable of developing herself, are to be parceled out among the British, the Russians, and, ourselves.

If there has as yet been an effort to negotiate a settlement among the Big Three and with Iran about the oil concessions, nothing has been heard about it. Yet such an effort should precede any acid test of the charter in New York. We should lose no more time getting our new ambassador, Gen. Bedell Smith, to Moscow, and if possible there ought to go with him someone—it's too bad it cannot be Mr. Ickes—who understands oil and the politics of oil.

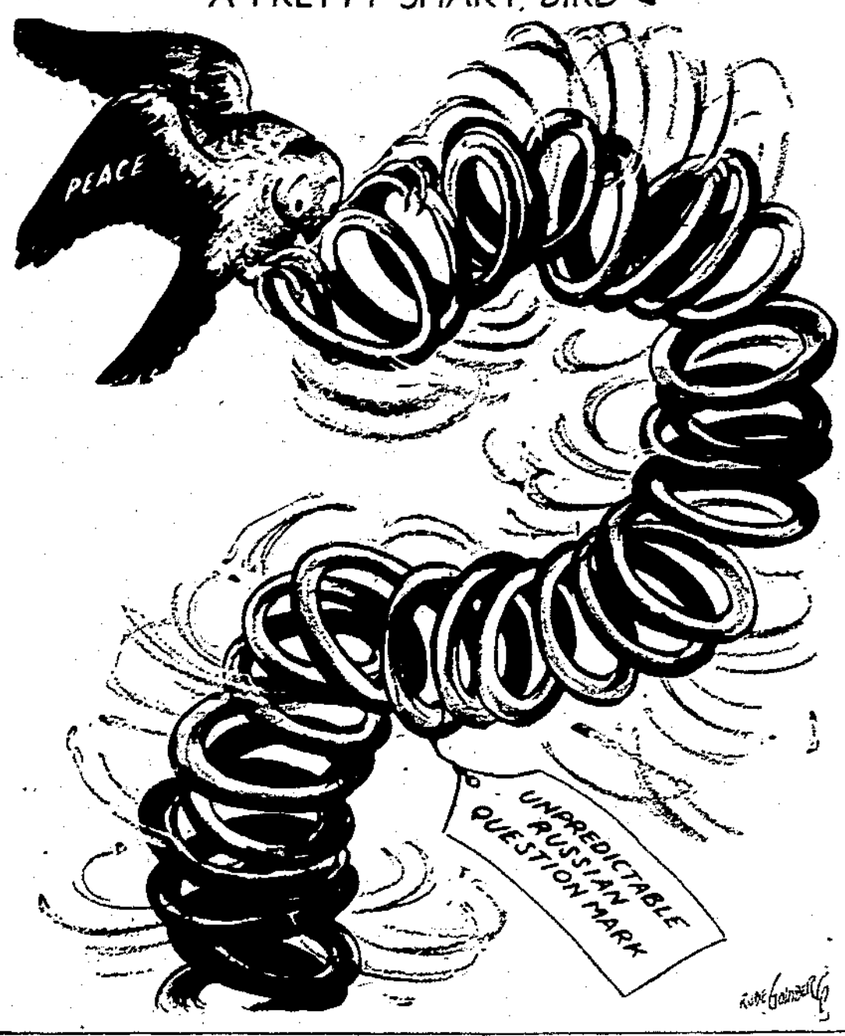
We should also initiate an exhaustive examination of the strategic problems of security in the Middle East—the Dardanelles, the Persian Gulf, Trieste, and the Greek islands. Gen Smith is admirably qualified to initiate this. But he cannot complete it alone.

The problem of the Mediterranean calls for negotiation with Britain, the Soviet Union, and the Mediterranean states in which the highest diplomatic and military authorities in all the governments ought to participate.

Perhaps the military committee of the U. N. O. can be used for this purpose. It could be if in our case a way could be found to raise the level of our representatives, bringing into the discussions men with real authority and knowledge—such as Secretary Forrestal, Gen. Eisenhower, and Admiral Nimitz.

It may be that the Russians will not wait until there can be negotiation about oil and strategic security. Perhaps they are bent on settling the matter before we can negotiate and on presenting us with accomplished facts. But to make known to them at once that we wish to negotiate about the basic issues and that we are using men of high authority to represent us is probably our best chance of beginning to work out a constructive settlement.

A PRETTY SHAKY BIRD



The Big Show Opens

By Raymond Moley

A RUMOR persists that President Truman may be on the way toward lightening CIO pressure on his administration by getting on famously with John L. Lewis. To build up Mr. Lewis in the AFL and to establish good relations between him and the administration would provide a counter-weight of some importance against Philip Murray. It is also said that Mr. Murray realizes this and that the Lewis portent is prominent in his restless dreams. The political reasoning which, no doubt, motivates the president, is that, since so much has been done for the CIO, the time has come to devote some tender ministrations to the AFL.

It will be interesting to watch the relative emphasis that Mr. Lewis places on his demands, which, as always, are plentiful. As always, too, some of the demands are for the miners, some for the union officers. A grant of a wage increase somewhat larger than that given to the automobile workers would be a Lewis victory over Mr. Murray. Presumably, the government will try to substitute ingenious dodges similar to last year's portal-to-portal, but such indirections have been about exhausted. Government may, however, be forced into a 20-cent increase, because of its desire to help the general picture in the AFL.

Union for Foremen.

The demand which is of special benefit to the union officers as distinguished from the men, is for the unionization of foremen. Such concessions were popular with the government during the war when, without breaking the wage-price line, it was possible to benefit the union officers by some such device as maintenance of membership.

Meanwhile, the coal industry is facing another big squeeze. The bituminous fields are being pressured in the same way as anthracite was some years ago. Anthracite has lost half its market in the past 20 years. Each price increase brings in more competing fuel, such as oil and natural gas. It also brings in more economical means of consumption, such as powdered coal. But a 20-cent wage increase would be promptly passed on to the consumer, probably in the form of a five per cent increase in prices.

Typical Lewis Opening.

Mr. Lewis, in his customary style, opens the show on a high moral issue. That issue usually takes the form of solemnly asserting that his opponents are fiends in human form. The word "corpse" sharpens the discussion. "The operators practice extortion from the time a child is born until his corpse is laid away." This is the cradle-to-grave theme. Moreover, he says that the industry "through mismanagement, cupidity, stupidity and wanton neglect" has "made dead 28,000 mine workers."

Mr. Lewis knows that no good performance can begin with statistics. It takes grim threats and charges to curdle men's blood.

Such a maestro should not be wasting his time on coal operators. He should be dealing with Premier Stalin. The Russians would understand what it means to ask for a mile when a foot is the objective. They would appreciate the broad impact of an appeal to eternal verities when the real subject of discussion is something quite mundane. And Mr. Lewis would understand the Russians, too. It is a pity that such talents cannot serve us all, instead of being limited to a few hundred thousand of us.

Pettigrew the Penguin on Fewer Crackers with the Soup

DEAR feathered friends

I am all for those 39 suggestions to save food and help the famine sufferers and anybody who holds back is a heel but i still think the results from the suggestion that restaurants cut down the number of Crackers served with the Soup will be invisible because if there has been anything the average restaurant has been conservative with it is Crackers and the quota has been 2 to a bowl of soup for years period.

The waiter or waitress would bring on the pair of thin saltines and no matter how much you Beefed all you would get would be the idea the world was going through a Cracker shortage unequalled in history and that anybody who would ask a third Cracker with the consommé was anti-american a glutton and four kinds of a bum in technicolor and a waiter or waitress would deposit the 2 Crackers on the table as if they were Collectors Items and if you were any good you would just keep your hands off anyhow and let them go back into the glass case period.

Of the 326,107,964,008 major Arguments in restaurants east of the mississippi in 1945 all but 109 were caused by Requests for a third Cracker and i once saw a dozen rolls and a loaf of Bread consumed during dispute in which the restaurant owner was explaining to a hungry customer that two Crackers with the bean Soup represented a national policy a luncheon creed a clause in the Constitution of the united states and a deathbed promise to his mother that never in his life would he serve a third cracker in his business come hell or High Water period.

The suggestion that the basket of bread and Rolls be cut out is okay by Me as i am used to it because most of the places i have been Eating in for years have been holding back with the basket and anyhow I do not care much for varnished buns and hard-shelled rolls as I never bring a hammer to dinner unless i am getting lobsters but i am not squawking about Anything and herb hoover is right and we have all got to show we are human beings by Cutting down on the diet and helping out millions of people who even in good times would not expect to eat as much for dinner as americans eat for a light Snack yours very truly,

Carpenters are busy reconverting Hunter College for UNO meetings, but judging from developments in the international picture it may be necessary to put back the wrestling mats.

The Dodgers are to play an exhibition game for UNO. Here's hoping the UNO delegates aren't just looking for some instruction in stealing second with the bases full.

Everybody is throwing a hat in the air over the award of best female movie performance of the year to Joan Crawford. There's a fine movie actress who, kept out of good material by her company for several seasons, finally quit, joined another company and then waited patiently for a play that seemed to her to make sense and be worth doing.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: I intended to write you a little bit last night about the "day off" your aunt and I enjoyed, but I was too sleepy. So I put it off till this morning and am writing this on the counter in the store, between customers. There are not many customers, but I notice the boys are having a brisk run at the pumps.

There is a new Ford out there now. A little while ago I saw a new Plymouth. They are beginning to show up. Last night I saw a new Nash, and I suppose the General Motors cars will be coming along soon. I don't know what I want to buy, when I finally get ready. It will depend on what kind of a deal they give me. The nice thing about modern cars is that all of them have to be good or they wouldn't be able to stand the competition. A customer can't lose.

About our day off yesterday—it was pretty much the usual kind of outing, which is to say it was satisfactory. We went up to the knoll on the Fisher farm and cooked our supper. But while we were sitting there enjoying the sun's warmth on the shelterside of some big rocks, we got to talking about the way everything is supposed to be going to the dogs, but isn't.

Five, maybe six, big airliners went overhead while we were there. They were going and coming from the new airport, beautiful, silvery ships. That is one thing that is turning out as advertised. People are flying with no more fuss than if they had been doing it all their lives. The miracle has happened. And we also talked about penicillin.

Jim Brady caught his glove in a portable saw last week and made a mess of his hand before he got the saw shut off. They took him to the county hospital and put his hand back together the best they could. But the key to the whole thing was whether or not the mangled fingers would get infected. They didn't, thanks to penicillin. Another miracle has happened, and we are taking it for granted.

We talked about miracles in farming. In our lifetime they've taken just about every major risk out of it, except weather and the dumbness of some farmers. I remember reading that if this country had to do it, enough stuff could be raised in one farm state to feed the whole nation. I wonder how many people appreciate the fact that in this country, for the first time anywhere, we don't have to list famine among our ever-blooming national problems.

And I wonder why people don't think and talk more about what they are doing and saying and seeing and worry less about problems in places like Iran that haven't been settled for a thousand years and probably won't be. Here we are, surrounded by wonders that make fiction seem tame, yet hanging on the words of popoffs who never created anything but trouble in their whole lives. Or am I just betraying my age and the fact that from where I sit it seems important to put first things first and throw out the rest?

Tell that boy it isn't long now until the end of school and that we have great plans for a lot of fun this summer.

BOSTON—Upward trend of unemployment benefit rolls found another reflection here recently when Massachusetts announced that a total of 53,154 discharged veterans in that state are now receiving unemployment pay of $20 a week. Officials emphasized, however, that job opportunities for ex-servicemen had reached a new low.

The oldest sport in the United States is lacrosse, played by the Indians as far back as the 17th century.

Each spring the Coast Guard blazes the trail through Great Lakes ice fields to open the way for waterborne commerce.

For the first nine years of its existence, the U. S. Coast Guard was the only Navy the United States could boast.

Since its founding in 1790, the Coast Guard has saved more than 200,000 lives on the high seas, and in one prewar year, 1939, made 2,000 rescues.

Russian Offer To Help with Food Aids French Reds

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

PARIS, March 19 — A distinguished French friend—long a keen observer of the trend of events at home and abroad—remarked to me as we were discussing his country's politic-economic difficulties:

"France's problem is one of food. We haven't had a piece of meat in my home for three weeks, because it couldn't be bought. Even the black market hasn't got much meat. That's what the people are up against, and their outlook is being swayed by their stomachs."

DewittMackenzie

Well, it's true that most folk think with their bellies when they're hungry. Moreover, on returning to Paris after an absence of a few weeks, we find that there has been a subtle and significant change in the reasoning impelled by short rations.

France had been expecting to get wheat from North America and meat from the Argentine. On the strength of its hopes, the government abandoned bread cards last November only to find that they had to be restored the first of this year, thus giving public morale a nasty jolt. Since then French belts have been drawn tighter and tighter.

Russia Gets Credit

Then a few days ago the nation was given the sensational news that Russia had offered France 500,000 tons of grain, providing this country could find the shipping to move it. The French have crews but few ships, and the United States already has provided Liberty ships to help transport this badly needed food.

The reaction of many of the French public is what would be expected. The people—not having had an explanation of why they couldn't get the wheat they needed from the United States or Canada and the meat from the Argentine—are saying:

"Russia is giving us the help which we couldn't get elsewhere."

That fits perfectly into the program of the French Communists, who are making a heavy propaganda campaign in preparation for the forthcoming national elections in May when the new constitution will be adopted and the republic will enter a fresh phase.

Mind you, I have no information that Moscow's move was other than purely humanitarian. I can only report what the effect is here in France on many people. And it may be suggested in passing that this would seem to be a mighty good time for the other Allied capitals to explain clearly the circumstances which made it impossible to fulfill the French hopes, since the people of this country certainly don't understand the situation.

Will Help Trend

Without doubt the Russian move will help the strong swing to the left which France is experiencing along with many other countries. There's much speculation on how it may affect the women's vote, since the question of food is a vital one for them.

However, political prophets are thinking much and saying little, for the future of France—traditionally on the conservative side with its great farming population—is in the melting pot. Three main political parties have taken the place of the many which bedeviled the country before the war. They are the Communists and Socialists on the left and the Mouvement Republicain Populaire on the right.

City-Owned Utilities Held as Tax-Exempt

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 19—C. Emory Glander, state tax commissioner, ruled today that all city-owned utilities except transit systems were exempt from real and property taxes.

In an action stemming from the Ohio supreme court's decision of June 6, 1945, holding the Cleveland Street Railway taxable, Glander cited a section of Ohio law written in the late 19th century and specifically exempting "works, machinery, pipe-lines, and fixtures belonging to a city or village and used exclusively for conveying water to it, or for heating or lighting it." The act does not mention transportation systems.

Conservation Committee To Meet Here in April

The Marion county wildlife conservation committee will meet the second week in April to discuss and recommend changes in game laws for this year, O. H. Neimeyer, Marion county game protector announced today.

Representatives from the Grange, farm organizations, sportsmen's clubs, nature and service club are expected to be present. One of the issues to be discussed will be continuation of the present fox law which expires March 31, 1947. The law makes it legal to kill fox at any time. Mr. Neimeyer said, however, there is pressure by certain groups to have the law changed and to put a closed season on fox.

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—The Association of Future Farmers will open its 18th annual meeting at Ohio State university May 31. Activities during the two-day session will include livestock, poultry, dairy cattle, crop identification and grading and milk judging contests.

The pre-war plan of network operation under a daylight savings schedule for the spring and summer months is to be put back into effect this year, three chains have indicated. A fourth has not yet reached a conclusion.

NBC, CBS and ABC say they plan to go on a daylight schedule April 28.

MBS, which said it is "studying the situation," has queried its stations on the question and intends to follow the desire of the majority.

Under the daylight schedule, shows on the networks will originate in accordance with this time, which is one hour ahead of standard. Thus it will be left to those affiliated stations which continue to operate on standard time either to follow the network listing or record programs and put them on in agreement with local times.

The committee's citation to George V. Damage Suit Asks $1,018 from C. & O. After Fire

Ross E. Hobson and Lona Hobson have filed a $1,018 damage suit in common pleas court against the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co.

In their petition they charge that in burning railway ties and debris along their 145 acre farm in Salt Rock township, railway employes left the fire unattended and it burned over 15 acres of their land, rendering approximately 33 acres unproductive.

The 33 acres was seeded to sweet clover and the Hobsons ask $450 for damage to the crop. They ask another $300 for 30 tons of straw claimed destroyed and $250 for replanting and recultivating 20 acres of land. For labor expenses in fighting the fire and for clothes burned they ask $18. BALL BLAMED IN DEATH

By The Associated Press

TROY, O., March 19 — The death of William Clase, 74, was attributed today by Prosecutor Paul Gingrich to a blow on the head from a baseball batted or thrown during a scrub game Friday. The prosecutor said Clase was standing in the yard of his son, C. E. Clase, when struck on the back of the head by the ball. A physician who examined the elder Clase said he apparently suffered no harm. He was found dead by his son Saturday morning, however, Gingrich said.

WALLACE SEEKS BAN ON PARTY RENEGADES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19 — Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace says that senators and representatives who oppose their own parties on major legislation should be banned from seeking election on their party tickets.

The commerce secretary, addressing members of the women's Democratic club here yesterday suggested party discipline on what he termed such major questions as the proposed British loan, foreign relations, full employment and atomic energy.

Saying that the Democratic party favors the British loan and the Republican party opposes it, Wallace explained his meaning thus:

"Members of the Democratic party should vote for the British loan or be put out of the party by not being allowed to run again on the Democratic party ticket. Either the dissenting members should join the other party or organize an independent one. The same should reply to the Republicans.

SWEDE BARES PEACE EFFORTS FOR HITLER

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, March 19—Birger Dahlerus, a Swedish engineer, testified today that the Swedish government rejected a suggestion three weeks before the outbreak of World War II that it—or King Gustaf V—attempt to mediate between Germany and Britain.

However, Dahlerus told the international military tribunal, the government offered no objection to a private citizen attempting such intervention and he said he personally carried a six-point peace plan from Adolf Hitler to British Prime Minister Chamberlain four days before the Wehrmacht marched into Poland.

Taking the stand as a defense witness for Hermann Goering, Dahlerus gave a vivid picture of a midnight meeting with the fuehrer in Berlin. He said Hitler shouted:

"I will build U-boats, U-boats—U-boats I will build. I will build airplanes, airplanes, airplanes, and I will win the war."

Dahlerus' account included much material already related in a British foreign office blue book.

UNRRA DEBATES CUT IN FOOD FOR AXIS

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 19 — A desperate shortage of food in a hungry world posed for UNRRA today its major immediate problem — whether to recommend sharp curtailment of relief aid to Japan and Germany in order to give preference treatment to Allied liberated lands.

The issue was flung into the fourth council of the International Relief Organization by Sir Carl Berendsen, New Zealand delegate, who insisted that first right to available food resources should go to the victims of Axis aggression.

Emergence of the question gave fresh significance to the mission of Herbert Hoover to Europe on a survey of food needs.

Meanwhile, the organization set today apart for the opening OFA debate on the whole question of food needs, with a move developing behind the scenes to call upon Russia for a substantial contribution of grain to eastern Europe. This stemmed from the disclosure that Russia is planning to ship 500,000 tons of wheat and barley to France

Delegates weighed privately also the question of how best to continue the organization's relief functions after the deadline for the organization's expiration, the end of 1946 in Europe; the end of June in Asia.

Union's best known academicians who recently wrote an answer in Izvestia to Winston Churchill's Fulton, Mo., speech, is one of the authors.

"The principle of the inviolability of international treaties is one of the basic rules of international law," the history said. "But the history of capitalistic states reveals that this principle is far from always observed.

"The most famous and indignant example of the violation of an international treaty was the treacherous attack on the Soviet Union by Germany.

"In contradiction of those states which consider treaties to be 'scraps of paper,' the U.S.S.R. steadfastly fulfills her international obligations and decisively denounces arbitrary unilateral breaches of concluded treaties."

Tarle, 70, who has a great deal of prestige throughout the U.S.S.R., was quoted by Tass today as saying in a recent lecture attended by many members of the supreme Soviet that Churchill's Fulton speech did not find a receptive audience.

search, and both have been held without formal charge since that time.

Formal statements were taken from both Suzanne and Williams, but Prosecutor O'Brien, pointing out that the girl was a juvenile, declined to make the statements public.

Suzanne, who sang and hummed in apparent unconcern today just as she had done last night in her cell, was questioned separately from Williams. The latter appeared nervous.

No Charge Seen

O'Brien said the girl's father had indicated he did not intend to prefer charges against her companion, identified by the prosecutor as Ollie J. Williams, a truck driver.

There has been no evidence of misconduct on the part of either Suzanne, taken into custody in a rooming house yesterday morning, or Williams, O'Brien declared, and no charges have been made.

Police quoted the young heiress as saying she had left the exclusive Edgewood academy at Madison because she wanted to be "on her own."

CHURCHILL SEES GREAT U. S.-BRITISH PROSPECTS

Leader Envisions Chance of Services to Humanity.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 19—Winston Churchill held out the prospect today of America and Great Britain rendering unprecedented services to humanity "at this juncture" by "walking forward together with no aims of conquest, subjugation • • • or advancement of the sordid interests."

The former British prime minister, after being awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws at Columbia university yesterday, also emphasized the importance of English and history, and added:

"Even our Communist friends should study this. They should study the admirable modern works on the life and the soul of the white ant. That will show not only a great deal about their past but will give a very fair indication of their future."

Churchill did not expand upon his allusion.

He spoke two hours after an assembly of nearly 1,500 students of the university criticized his recent Fulton, Mo., speech, and after students, bearing placards saying "No more blood, sweat ar tears," paraded near the school.

SPEEDY SENATE OKAY OF BARUCH FORECAST

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 19—Pleased senators today forecast speedy approval of President Truman's appointment of Bernard M. Baruch—an old friend who has their confidence—as American representative on the United Nations atomic energy commission.

At the same time the President was reported to have sent word that interested legislators are going to be kept fully informed of progress in the attempt to set up international atomic controls.

This question has been worrying some senators who have insisted that the United States must not share the atomic bomb secret until air-tight methods are found to prevent its secret manufacture by a potential aggressor.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said the foreign relations committee will act tomorrow on the nomination of Baruch, who he said will take "no predisposed views" into his new job.

Baruch, 75-year-old park bench statesman, announced in New York yesterday "I will accept." The new assignment added another to the long list which the financier and presidential adviser has undertaken at the behest of the government.
